RESEARCH PROJECTS IN PROGRESS

Sociophonetic Perception of Sexual Identity: Evidence From Native and Non-Native Spanish Speakers

- Employs a matched-guise methodology to test bilingual perception of sexual identity markers in Spanish.
- Status: Data collection in progress (Spring & Summer 2026).

Supervised Classification of Sociophonetic Identity Markers in Sevillian Spanish Persona Production

- Applies machine learning classification (Random Forest, SVM) to acoustic features to determine which segmental and prosodic cues most reliably predict performed vocal personae.
- Status: Analysis of controlled persona-switching corpus.
